BIO

Sue Reynolds is a certified Executive Coach with a degree in Organizational Leadership and over twenty years of corporate and non-profit leadership experience. She currently manages a team of social media and content marketers for a major corporation. At Carmine Media, she provides those same services to small businesses and non-profits and specializes in mentoring and empowering women to succeed in the workplace. Sue is a speaker and trainer on business, social media marketing, and leadership.

When she is not managing the team she sings in a band as the lead vocalist and enjoys traveling the world when not in lockdown. You can read more about her travels on Off Duty Traveler.
